29th Annual Conference of the European Society for Clinical Virology Vienna, Austria | 15-18 September 2027

Dear Industry Partners,

The European Society for Clinical Virology (ESCV) is pleased to invite your organisation to become a sponsoring and exhibiting partner of the 29th ESCV Annual Conference.

The conference

The ESCV Annual Conference is one of Europe's leading scientific meetings in the field of clinical virology, bringing together experts from diagnostic laboratories, hospitals, public health institutions, academia and industry. The meeting provides an internationally recognised platform for scientific exchange, education, collaboration and the presentation of innovations that advance the diagnosis, prevention and management of viral diseases.

Why support ESCV 2027?

As a partner of ESCV 2027, your organisation will benefit from:

- Visibility among an international audience of clinical virologists, infectious disease specialists, laboratory professionals and researchers
- Opportunities to showcase innovative products, services and scientific developments
- Direct interaction with key opinion leaders, decision-makers and future collaborators
- Increased brand recognition within the clinical virology community
- Participation in a meeting focused on current and emerging challenges in virology, diagnostics and patient care

Partnership opportunities

- Exhibition space within the scientific exhibition area
- Industry-sponsored scientific and educational sessions
- Support for networking and social activities
- Educational grants and initiatives supporting young scientists
- Branding and visibility opportunities throughout the conference
- Digital and on-site promotional activities

Detailed information on partnership opportunities will be included in the official ESCV 2027 Sponsorship Prospectus, which will be available soon.

Join us in Vienna

We would be delighted to welcome your organisation as a valued partner and contributor to the success of ESCV 2027.
